BU BÖLÜMDE A2'den B2 SEVİYESİNE KADAR PARAGRAF SORULARI YER ALMAKTADIR

RP1. A nagging wife paid off big-time for a Chicago man, who won $100,000 a year for life in the lottery thanks to his insistent spouse. Jeweler Raymond Horn was very reluctant to go to work in Manhattan on March 5 because of bad weather. Forecasters had predicted a big blizzard for that day, but the snowfall was light, so his wife insisted he go. Unwillingly, Raymond left the house and walked to the subway station as usual and he picked up a New York State Lottery instant ticket in the subway. A few scratches of a coin later, Horn was screaming with joy and ended up never making it to work that day. Instead, he phoned home and told his wife, "I'm a rich guy!" They can now pay for their children's colleges, and they also plan to help people who aren't as fortunate. According to the rules of the State Lottery, they will keep collecting the money as long as they live.

S7-According to the passage, if Raymond's wife had not pushed him to go to work, _____.

- A) there could not have been a heavy snowfall that day B) he might not have bought the instant ticket and won the lottery
C) he would not have the necessary change in his pocket to buy a ticket
D) he might not have used a different form of transport to go to work E) his wife would have insisted that he should buy a ticket
